

INCIDENTS MANAGEMENT

KEY RULES AND PROCEDURES OF THE CORE(FR) PAYMENT SYSTEM

- June 2023 -

A. NATURE OF INCIDENTS

The incidents management includes two parts, depending on the nature of the incident:

- operational,
- financial.

In the first case, the incidents management process is based on an operational crisis process involving the Direct Participants.

In the second case, the incidents management process is based on the CORE(FR) Payment System Security Process defined in the CORE(FR) Payment System Terms and Conditions and in the Guarantee Terms and Conditions signed by each Direct Participant.

B. INCIDENTS OF OPERATIONAL NATURE

Incidents of operational nature may result from STET or from a Direct Participant. They may impact the exchanges and/or the settlement.

The incidents resulting from STET may be detected by STET or by Direct Participants.

The incidents resulting from Participants may be of bank nature or technically impact the exchanges with CORE.

1. Organisation in the event of an incident resulting from STET

The monitoring of incidents that may affect the performance of CORE technical processes, the operations exchange and clearing, or that may create an abnormal situation, includes an internal escalation process, integrating the constitution, if needed, of an « Operational Crisis Unit ».

In case of a technical incident, STET may delay the events that define the clearing cycle. Information is given if the delay is less than one hour. An Operational Crisis Unit is initiated if the delay could last more than one hour.

2. Organisation in the event of an incident resulting from Direct Participants

Banking incidents:

The sending Direct Participant shall inform STET in the event of the sending of erroneous, duplicate, late or wrong Payment Orders, for itself or for its Indirect Participants, in accordance with provisions defined by each Exchange Community.

STET transfers the information to the whole related Exchange Community, and, if needed, initiates the Operational Crisis Unit.

STET may, upon the request of the sending Direct Participant, help the latter to identify the receiving Direct Participants of the related Payment Orders. The provisions of this help are jointly defined.

The procedure followed, in the event of the identification by the issuer or by the receiver, of Payment Orders with an « absurd » amount, is described within each Exchange Community.

The Operational Crisis Unit aims at managing crisis resulting from technical incidents at the CORE level or bank incidents at the Participants' level, and impacting the process of operations exchanged in CORE.

The concerned Direct Participants shall apply decisions made and the conservatory measures decided by the Operational Crisis Unit.

An assessment is written after the crisis management and distributed to the Operational Crisis Representatives of the Direct Participants of the related Exchange Community.

C. INCIDENTS OF FINANCIAL NATURE

The proper settlement of the Clearing Balances of the MINOS and the SEPA(FR) communities is ensured by a Security Process.

This Security process includes a Common Guarantee Fund provisioned by all the Direct Participants and an Individual Guarantees process which ensure, through prepayments, the credit of the net debit balances of the Direct Participants exceeding the balance of the Common Guarantee Fund.

It intends to cover the cases of a Direct Participant failure or default of financial nature and is based on specific settlement procedures as well as on the Financial Crisis Unit that aims at managing crisis resulting from incidents of financial nature.
